ORDER OF AFFIRMANCE

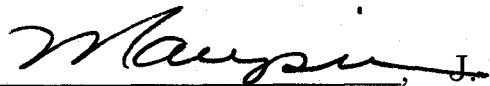

This is an appeal from a judgment of conviction, pursuant to a guilty plea, of one count of embezzlement. Second Judicial District Court, Washoe County; Janet J. Berry, Judge. The district court sentenced appellant Jennifer Long to a prison term of 12 to 32 months. The district court further suspended the sentence and placed Long on probation for a period not to exceed 5 years.

Long contends that this matter should be remanded to remove an unreasonable condition of probation. Specifically, Long challenges the condition that allows for a search to check on the health, welfare and safety of any child in Long's custody. NRS 176A.400(1) provides, in part, that "[i]n issuing an order granting probation, the court may fix the terms and conditions, including, without limitation: . . . Any reasonable conditions to protect the health, safety or welfare of the community." Moreover, a district court judge enjoys wide discretion to impose such conditions.¹

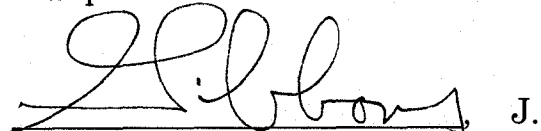

¹See Creps v. State, 94 Nev. 351, 360-61, 581 P.2d 842, 848-49 (1978).

We conclude that the district court did not abuse its discretion in this case, and we therefore

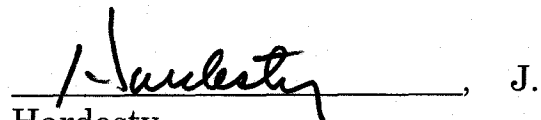

ORDER the judgment of the district court AFFIRMED.
