ORDER DISMISSING APPEAL

Our review of the documents before us in this proper person appeal reveals a jurisdictional defect. Specifically, it appears that the order appellant is challenging is not a final appealable judgment. See NRAP 3A(b)(1) (providing for an appeal from a final judgment in an action or proceeding). A final judgment is one that disposes of all issues presented in the case and leaves nothing for the future consideration of the district court, except for post-judgment issues such as attorney fees and costs. Lee v. GNLV Corp., 116 Nev. 424, 996 P.2d 416 (2000). Here, as it appears that a final judgment has not been entered in the underlying case, we lack jurisdiction to consider this appeal, and we

ORDER this appeal DISMISSED.¹

¹As we conclude that we lack jurisdiction over this appeal, appellant need not file the civil proper person appeal statement and transcript request forms sent to him.

Additionally, we note that appellant's failure to pay the supreme court filing fee could constitute an independent basis on which to dismiss this appeal.
