ORDER DENYING WRIT PETITION

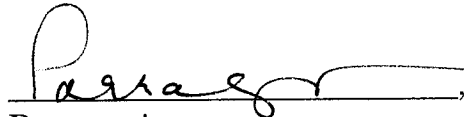

This original proper person writ petition seeks to compel the district court to take certain actions and respond to petitioner's inquiries regarding a civil complaint that he allegedly filed. The petition is not accompanied by any supporting documentation, in violation of NRAP 21(a). Petitioner bears the burden of demonstrating that extraordinary relief is warranted. Pan v. Dist. Ct., 120 Nev. 222, 88 P.3d 840 (2004). Here, petitioner has not shown that a district court action has even been filed, much less that the district court is neglecting its duties in processing the case. Accordingly, we are not persuaded that writ relief is warranted,
