ORDER DISMISSING APPEAL

Our review of the documents before us in this proper person appeal reveals a jurisdictional defect. Specifically, the order appellant is challenging is not a final, appealable judgment. See NRAP 3A(b)(1) (providing for an appeal from a final judgment in an action or proceeding). A final judgment is one that disposes of all issues presented in the case, and leaves nothing for the future consideration of the district court, except for post-judgment issues such as attorney fees and costs. Lee v. GNLV Corp., 116 Nev. 424, 996 P.2d 416 (2000). Here, while the district court denied appellant's opposition to respondent's complaint for forfeiture, the order on appeal does not finally resolve respondent's complaint. Accordingly, because a final judgment has not been entered in the underlying case, we lack jurisdiction to consider this appeal and we

ORDER this appeal DISMISSED.
