ORDER OF AFFIRMANCE

This is an appeal from a district court order revoking appellant Aaron L. Sledge's probation. Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; Michelle Leavitt, Judge.

Sledge contends that the district court abused its discretion by revoking his probation because he was not in violation of the no-contact order prohibiting him from being in unsupervised contact with the victim in the underlying domestic violence case. We disagree. The district court's decision to revoke probation will not be disturbed absent an abuse of discretion. Lewis v. State, 90 Nev. 436, 438, 529 P.2d 796, 797 (1974). At the revocation hearing, evidence was presented that Sledge violated the conditions of his probation by having unsupervised contact with the victim, changing residences and living with a convicted felon without notifying the Division of Parole and Probation, and failing to register as a convicted felon. As a result, the district court found that his conduct was not as good as required by the conditions of his probation. See id. We conclude that the district court did not abuse its discretion by revoking Sledge's probation, and we

ORDER the judgment of the district court AFFIRMED.
