ORDER DISMISSING APPEALS

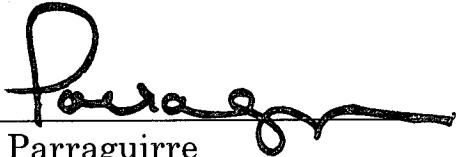

Our review of the documents before us in these appeals reveals a jurisdictional defect. Specifically, it appears that the orders appellant is challenging are not final, appealable judgments. See NRAP 3A(b)(1) (providing for an appeal from a final judgment in an action or proceeding). A final judgment is one that disposes of all issues presented in the case, and leaves nothing for the future consideration of the district court, except for post-judgment issues such as attorney fees and costs. Lee v. GNLV Corp., 116 Nev. 424, 426, 996 P.2d 416, 417 (2000). Accordingly, as it appears that a final, written judgment has not been entered in the underlying case, we lack jurisdiction to consider these appeals and we

ORDER these appeals DISMISSED.¹

¹As we conclude that we lack jurisdiction over these appeals, appellant need not file the civil proper person appeal statements and transcript request forms sent to him.
