ORDER DISMISSING APPEAL

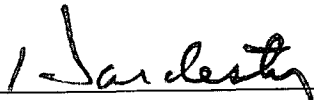

When appellant's notice of appeal and civil proper person appeal statement were filed in this court without properly completed certificates of service, this court directed appellant to properly serve those documents and file proper certificates of service for those documents in this court within 15 days of that order's date. Appellant, however, failed to comply with this court's directive and instead filed in this court a second copy of his civil proper person appeal statement, which also did not contain a properly completed certificate of service. Appellant also filed a stay motion, which again did not contain a properly completed certificate of service.

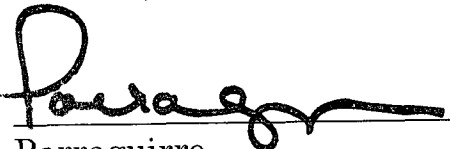

As a result, on October 17, 2013, appellant was directed to properly serve all of these documents on counsel for respondents and to file properly completed certificates of service for each of these documents in this court within 15 days of that order's date. That order further cautioned appellant that his failure to fully comply with these directives would result in the dismissal of this appeal. The time for responding to our October 17 order has now expired, and appellant has not complied with the directives contained therein or otherwise communicated with this court. Accordingly, in light of appellant's noncompliance with our October 17 order, we
