ORDER OF AFFIRMANCE

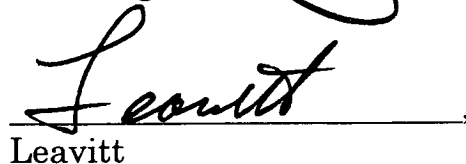

This is a proper person appeal from a district court order granting a motion to dismiss and a district court order granting summary judgment. Having reviewed the record, we conclude that the district court did not err by granting either motion.¹

¹Although appellant was not granted leave to file documents in proper person, see NRAP 46(b), we have received and considered appellant's proper person documents. See NRCP 12(b)(5); Brown v. continued on next page . . .

Accordingly, we

Kellar, 97 Nev. 582, 583, 636 P.2d 874, 874 (1981) (noting that this court construes pleadings liberally for the plaintiff and if there are insufficient allegations to set forth a claim for relief, the district court did not err by granting a motion to dismiss); see also NRS 56(c); Auckenthaler v. Grundmeyer, 110 Nev. 682, 684, 877 P.2d 1039, 1040 (1994) (noting that the district court did not err in granting a motion for summary judgment if the movant was entitled to judgment as a matter of law).
