ORDER OF AFFIRMANCE

This is an appeal from a judgment of conviction entered pursuant to a guilty plea of two counts of burglary. Second Judicial District Court, Washoe County; Connie J. Steinheimer, Judge.

Appellant Sheila Louise Green was sentenced to a prison term of 24 to 60 months for the first count and a prison term of 12 to 60 months for the second count. She contends that the district court abused its discretion by imposing the sentences to run consecutively. She argues that the district court failed to follow the legislative purpose of NRS 176.035(1), which she claims is to temper the harshness of the historic practice of running subsequent sentences consecutively. And she asserts that the district court “double-dipped” by using her criminal history as a reason for both denying probation and running the sentences consecutively.

We review a district court’s sentencing decision for abuse of discretion. Chavez v. State, 125 Nev. 328, 348, 213 P.3d 476, 490 (2009). Green’s prison sentences fall within the parameters of the relevant statute, see NRS 205.060(2), she does not allege that the district court relied solely on impalpable or highly suspect evidence, see Silks v. State,
