¹See Sims v. Sims, 109 Nev. 1146, 865 P.2d 328 (1993) (recognizing that the district court has broad discretion in determining child custody issues, and that this court will not disturb the district court's judgment absent a clear abuse of discretion); NRS 125.480(1) (providing that the sole consideration in awarding custody of a child is the best interest of the child); NRS 125C.220(1)(a) (providing that a presumption concerning custody and visitation is created when one parent is convicted of first degree murder of the other parent of the child); NRS 125C.050(1) (formerly NRS 125A.330) (providing that a court may grant visitation rights to a child's grandparent if it finds that such visits would be in the best interests of the child).

Although appellants were not granted permission to file documents in proper person, see NRAP 46(b), we have considered all proper person documents received in this matter.
