ORDER DISMISSING APPEALS

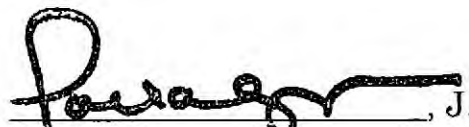

These are pro se appeals from a district court order granting a motion to set aside a default judgment and a district court order dismissing certain claims and allowing appellant to amend her complaint. Eighth Judicial District Court, Clark County; Ronald J. Israel, Judge.

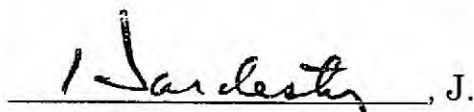

Review of the notices of appeal and documents before this court reveals jurisdictional defects. The order granting a motion to set aside a default judgment is not an independently appealable order. See Estate of Adams v. Fallini, 132 Nev. 814, 818, 386 P.3d 621, 624 (2016). Further, an order dismissing some, but not all, claims and allowing appellant to amend her complaint is not appealable as a final judgment. See NRAP 3A(b)(1); Lee v. GNLV Corp., 116 Nev. 424, 426, 996 P.2d 416, 417 (2000) (defining a final judgment); Bergenfield v. BAC Home Loan Servicing, 131 Nev. 683, 354 P.3d 1282 (2015) (an order dismissing a complaint with leave to amend is not a final judgment). And no other statute or court rule appears to allow an appeal from such an order. See Brown v. MHC Stagecoach, LLC, 129

20-26117

Nev. 343, 345, 301 P.3d 850, 851 (2013) (this court “may only consider appeals authorized by statute or court rule”). Accordingly, this court lacks jurisdiction over these appeals and orders them dismissed. However, the orders challenged in these appeals are subject to review in the context of appellant’s appeal from the final judgment, on appeal in Docket No. 81298.

It is so ORDERED.¹
